Constructing Identities in the east and west:
A comparative analysis of
Popular culture in the U.S. and China

Honors in China

May 26-June 9, 2014

Cost: $3,391*

Program Overview:
This summer, join Professor Sarah Kahn on two-week intensive study of the intersection of popular culture and identity construction in the U.S. and China. This honors seminar will take place in the cities of Shanghai and Beijing, China, juxtaposing the traditional and the modern and providing a stunning backdrop for the study of culture and identity. Students will have the chance to participate in local cultural activities (such as Taiji in the park), interact with Chinese students, and hear guest lectures from local experts on Chinese popular culture. The majority of the program will be based in Shanghai but will culminate in a 4 day/3 night trip to Beijing, including a visit to the Great Wall.

Program Highlights:
- SDSU tuition for 3 units (HONOR 413)
- Double occupancy accommodations
- Welcome & Farewell receptions
- Cultural immersion activities
- Guest lectures and course-related activities
- Access to CEA on-site support staff
- International health insurance
- overnight excursion to Wuzhen
- Local transportation passes in Shanghai
- 4 day/3 night excursion to Beijing

* Price is based on program enrollment. Please see website for details.

For more information, contact Professor Sarah Kahn at sarahzkahn@gmail.com and visit http://dus.sdsu.edu/dus/honorsinchina