

SDSU Flex - Fall 2020

Frequently Asked Questions for Student Ability Success Center (SASC)

I am currently enrolled in an in-person course(s) but I am unable to attend due to COVID-related concerns, who should I contact?

Students who are unable to attend an in-person course during the fall 2020 semester due to COVID-related concerns should complete the following form to request a letter from Student Ability Success Center (SASC) that the student can share with their instructor and their Assistant Dean: SDSU Flex - Request for SASC Letter Regarding In-Person Attendance

Once the form has been submitted the student will receive a letter from SASC within five (5) business days of the submission date. The letter will be emailed to the email address provided in the form submission.

Once the student has received the letter, they should provide it to their instructor and assistant dean in their college as soon as possible in order for the appropriate accommodations to be made with your scheduled course. If you decide to drop or postpone taking the impacted course for a later semester, you are strongly encouraged to work with your academic advisor to understand if there will be any impacts on your academic progress.

What if I am unable to attend an in-person course, will I be able to complete the course virtually?

All in-person courses were carefully selected due to the pedagogical (teaching and learning) needs of the course content. It has been determined that the student learning outcomes associated with the specific course are best met through in-person delivery. Therefore, while faculty and the Student Ability Success Center will work to identify possible accommodations for students who may not be able to attend portions of an in-person course, in some cases the instructor may not be able to accommodate a student who needs to take the entire in-person course virtually. Students in this situation are strongly encouraged to talk with their academic advisor and/or the assistant dean in their college to understand if there will be an impact on their academic progress should they delay taking the course, or otherwise drop the course for the fall semester.
